Two Great Trees Plant Idle? Certainly Diamonds All Around Your Heat Fights Germs

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

FROM a big orange tree in Southern California, the Riverside chamber of commerce sends 126 oranges to as many newspaper editors. The tree is one of two imported from Brazil by the United States Department of Agriculture. Those two trees are the father and mother of all the "Washington navel trees" that make up great groves in Southern California.

Similarly a few cherry trees, brought by Lucullus from his wars in Asia, are the ancestors of millions of cherry trees that small American boys climb every year. Such are the wealth and generosity of Nature.

Mr. Rogers at Muscle Shoals inspects with his mournful cowboy eye a $150,000,000 plant built by the people to produce nitrogen to supply cheap fertilizer for farmers, and explosives in case of war.

Mr. Rogers remarks that such a plant lying idle is enlightening. It means that the Government isn't quite ready to deliver the plant over to the power trust.

And until the power trust gets it, that trust won't let anybody else use the Muscle Shoals plant.

Beyers, minister of mines for South Africa, announces discovery of an amazing diamond field. He picked up three thousand dollars' worth of diamonds lying on the surface of the ground in an hour. Employes of the Government, which reserves the new "diggings" as Government property, gathered up several hundred thousand dollars' worth of diamonds in a short time.

This news will worry Britain's diamond monopoly for a while, although reserving the diggings as state property will prevent any sudden glutting of the diamond market.

In the long run, Providence seems to take care of gold, silver and diamond values.

The needs and wealth of the human race increase more rapidly than the supply of gold and diamonds.

Discovery of a new leprosy cure at the Malamulo leper colony in South Africa is encouraging. Chaulmoogra oil has worked miracles against the ancient disease. The new method uses the heat of a leper's body to kill the disease germs. A high fever is artificially established, and the germs die, unable to stand a temperature to which the patient's blood is raised.

This reminds doctors that when Nature increases body temperature the extra heat has its value. Indiscriminate use of drugs to deaden the heart and reduce temperature is extremely dangerous, interfering with the body's effort to conquer invading germs.

Congress will proceed cautiously in barring Mexican labor. Legislation concerning Asiatic labor has raised numerous problems, particularly in California.

If Mexican labor should be suddenly excluded the problem for the entire Southwest would be most serious.

Machinery will be devised eventually to do the so-called back breaking farm work that proud United States citizens, accustomed to their automobiles, no longer will do.

But nothing should be done too suddenly, unless the Government is willing to precipitate hard times over a wide area.

A Chicago doctor is promptly convicted of murder in the first degree by an intelligent jury for an illegal operation that caused the death of a girl nineteen years old.

It was shown that the man neglected the unfortunate girl when a nurse reported that she

FIND BLAZE ON TWO FLOORS

Two American flags were deliberately destroyed by incendiaries who fired the Bulfinch primary school at 1 ... ave. and Parker st. ... today.

Two separate fires were set within the school and only chance discovery of the flames by a passerby prevented the building from being destroyed.

On the first floor, the two flags were removed from their cases and ignited. A small blaze was started in a washstand on the second floor, the flames burning a wall before they were extinguished.

While inspectors from the state fire marshal's office, together with Special Officers Coleman and Blanchain of Roxbury Crossing station began an investigation.

Harold MacIntosh, 14, of O st., South Boston, in South Boston Court was held for the grand jury in $1000, on a charge of arson in connection with a fire in a house in E. 4th st., in which a woman was carried out and the others led to safety.

According to the police, young McIntosh confessed he started the fire in a vacant apartment in the house. Two other fires have been discovered in the adjoining tenement house within the last few days.

BODIES OF LAWSON, WIFE REMOVED FROM SCITUATE

Scituate, March 3 (AP)—Arnold Lawson, son of the late Thomas W. Lawson, Boston financier, made it known today that the bodies of his father and mother had been removed to Fairview cemetery from the costly mausoleum on the old Lawson estate in this town.

He said that in view of the fact that the estate had been cut up and part of it was now occupied by an inn he believed it suitable that the bodies should be taken to a more secluded place.

FIREWORKS HINTED BY GOODWIN

Collar off and an old shirt sleeves, Frank A. Goodwin, deposed registrar of motor vehicles, stopped puttering about his home in Brighton today long enough to promise plenty of fireworks when he starts talking.

"I'm not going to announce my future personal or political plans at the dinner of the State Associates next Monday, but some people think I will when I open up," he said.

"I'm going to be an elder statesman as a start about my plans for the present, but I'm liable to start talking any time."

A reporter found Goodwin unconcerned about the storm on his hand caused on Beacon Hill and thinking seriously of cleaning the house cellar, which is the bugaboo of some

KILLS 2 SONS SO THEY CAN SEE DEAD GRANDMA

Indiana Harbor, Ind., March 3 (AP)—Chief of Police James R. Regan of East Chicago, Ind., announced today that George Smith, a Canadian, has confessed killing two of his three children, whose bodies were found floating in the Indiana Harbor ship canal.

Smith, Chief Regan said, told him the boys expressed a wish to see their grandmother, who is dead. Smith said he took them to the ship canal, laid a plank out over the water, tied the boys together with wires and told the oldest, nine years old, to walk the plank and jump into the water and he would be with his grandmother. The boy did so and pulled his younger brother in after him, Smith told the police.

Smith, who had lived in Canada until three years ago, said he had been having trouble with his wife, who is now in England, and, after placing the boys in an orphanage for a time, decided there was no future for them or for himself, so decided to kill all three of them, George, Jr., 9, and Edgar and Robert, 7, twins, and then kill himself.

For some reason Robert was not killed and Smith said he lost his nerve when it came to the point of committing suicide.

RISE OF $100,000,000 IN GENERAL MOTORS

New York, March 3 (AP)—Nearly $100,000,000 was added to the market value of the common stock of the General Motors Corporation today when abnormally heavy buying carried the price up $5.37½ a share to $144.06, a record for the present no par issue. Approximately 245,000 shares of the stock changed hands above $140, representing a value at current prices of more than $35,000,000.

The demand for the stock was attributed to prospects of large earnings in the first half of the year, and a belief that another large extra dividend would follow. Dupont, whose holdings of the stock run well into the millions, was bid up $5 a share to $323.

United States Steel also attracted large buying orders, up 2¾.

He pointed out that Public Health Commissioner Francis X. Manoney in Boston has decided to urge a continuation of restraint, and Cambridge has passed an ordinance continuing the period in that city.

FIVE SAILORS ARE NEAR DEATH AS LOS ANGELES IS LANDED DURING GALE

Another member of the ground crew who hung on until the dirigible was 20 feet off the ground was only slightly injured in the fall.

The big airship quickly disappeared in the storm, and fear that she might meet the same fate as the Shenandoah were expressed by members of the ground crew which had almost succeeded in walking her into the hangar when the storm swept down.

Forty-three men were aboard her, the largest crew she had carried since her flight in this country from Germany.

Shortly before 6:30 a. m., when the snow had ceased and the wind had died down, her silvery hulk appeared against the brightening eastern horizon and half an hour later she had nosed down to the field and been stowed safely away in her hangar.

Comdr. C. E. Rosendahl first brought the Los Angeles over her home field at 11:40 last night after a 37-hour flight from Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, where she had stopped off on her return trip from Panama. She nosed slowly about for much for her main mooring line which carried away and she was forced to take to the air again.

The dirigible cruised slowly over the field for some time waiting a lull in the wind. Ominous clouds piling up in the southwest decided

DUCE CITES FULLER IN WAR THREAT TO AUSTRIA

Rome, March 3 (INS)—A threat of war against Austria was made by Premier Mussolini in the Italian Chamber of Deputies today, in a speech in which he cited the Sacco-Vanzetti case as a precedent for his stand for non-interference by outsiders.

Mussolini addressed the Chamber in reply to recent declarations by Chancellor Seipel of Austria in the Austrian Parliament that Austrians in the Upper Adige district (South Tyrol) were being mistreated by Italian officials.

The ...y thinks it ...ow out of the whole trip ...he will look ...ve...e of the ...ports and the ...ilities. Believes ...ings it was as pleasant a cruise ...as anybody could wish."

Despite the 4000-mile trip Commander Rosendahl believes that the Los Angeles is not big enough for regular commercial traffic across the Atlantic.

"When it comes to regular transatlantic service we'll have to have bigger ships," he said.

Right now, Rosendahl said, he is going to concentrate on the development of some mechanical means of placing ground crews for warping a dirigible in and out of her hangar.

"We can see what an improvement that would be," he explained. "Here we had 225 men on the ground working with all their might to bring the ship across the field into the hangar. And a gust of wind blew up and lifted her off the ground as if nobody was holding her back.

"I believe some mechanical device can be developed that will bring the ship down and run her in safely without any such ground crews as are necessary now."

There was one thing the commander and his crew learned on the Panama trip. It was the experience ...ey gained by "flying on wealth ...reports."

Urges $175,000 'Snow Cash' for Airport

Boston should not lag in developing its airport, and might well spend some of the $175,000 saved on snow removal this winter on such development, Maj. Edwin H. Cooper, D. S. C., of the Crosscup-Pishon Post, American Legion, states in a letter dropped today from the plane which is carrying "Lindy's" mother home.

This message was addressed to Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Boston Evening American, and the sender asked Col. Knox to convey its substance to Mayor Nichols and Governor Fuller.

The letter follows:

Dear Col. Knox:

We are sorry to learn before leaving this morning that the city and State have been unable to work out a program satisfactory to both for the development of the Boston Airport.

It should be one of the richest in the world.

It would be unfortunate if the differences in opinion prevent the prompt and substantial development of the airport.

Boston should not lag.

I hope very much that my home city will not lag behind other cities in providing for the future development of air transportation.

We should not delay until it is too late. I understand that this winter the city has saved about $175,000 because it was not necessary to spend it for the removal of snow. Why should not the city spend this amount, or some portion of it, for the development of the airport this year?

This is my suggestion. Will you please pass it along to the Governor, the mayor and the chamber.

due to strong headwinds and snow squalls that forced detours over western Massachusetts.

Immediately upon arrival Mrs. Lindbergh dispatched a telegram to Mrs. Calvin Coolidge at Northampton, Mass., informing the President's wife the plane had passed over her home city.

"We flew over Northampton," the telegram read, "and send best wishes to your mother and you."

The plane took off for Buffalo at 12:37 o'clock, after Mrs. Lindbergh and her companions had eaten a light lunch aboard it. Lieut. Hegenberger was uncertain when he left whether he would remain at Buffalo overnight or continue on to Detroit.

Maj. Cooper and Miss Dawson Accompany Mrs. Lindbergh

With a farewell kiss for Boston and a few words for her pleasant sojourn here, Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh soared into the sky from Boston Airport today and followed a trail westward toward Detroit in the big Ford plane piloted by Lieut. Albert Hegenberger.

The start was made at 8:04, only 32 minutes after Mrs. Lindbergh was awakened in her room at the Statler. About 200 persons were at the airport to witness the departure.

There was a cheer as Mrs. Lindbergh stepped into the plane. She turned and, touching her finger tips to her lips, tossed a kiss toward the city.

"I have many happy memories of my visit to Boston," she said simply, in a low voice, but as if to the city in general rather than to anyone near her, and then vanished inside the cabin.

A letter addressed to Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Boston Evening American, was dropped from above the field by Maj. Edwin H. Cooper, D. S. C., of the Crosscup-Pishon Post, American Legion, who is flying to Detroit with Mrs. Lindbergh's party.

This message suggested using some of the $175,000 the city has saved on snow removal this Winter for the development of the Airport.

Those in the party included Mrs. Lindbergh's companion teacher, Miss Maud Dawson; Lieutenant Hegenberger, at the controls; Lieut. Harry Johnson, his relief pilot, and Major Cooper.

MRS. COOLIDGE CHEERS MOTHER

Northampton, Mass., March 3 (AP)—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge spent two hours at the Dickinson Hospital today with her mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, and planned to make another visit late in the afternoon. Hospital authorities said Mrs. Goodhue had "a pretty good night" and was very comfortable today. She was cheerful and appeared especially pleased to know that her daughter would be here for several days.

It was said in behalf of Mrs. Coolidge that she probably would send a reply to a telegram of greeting sent to her from Schenectady by Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh, who earlier in the day had passed over Northampton in her flight from Boston. It was intimated, however, that the reply would not be made public here.

American Men Ideal of Manhood, Says Woman Writer

New York, March 3 (INS)—"American men lead the world in strength of character, dominating energy and arresting personality. The Englishman unquestionably has given place to his American cousin as the ideal figure of manhood."

Miss Kathleen Woodward, English novelist and biographer, delivered this parting message today as she sailed on the Carmania for England. Miss Woodward is the former factory girl whose writing attracted the attention of the British royal court, and who won the favor of Queen Marie by writing her biography.

"One of my most lasting impressions of America," added Miss Woodward, "is the cordiality of its reception to foreigners."

EXALTS CAPTAIN PARKER.

The former registrar accorded unlimited praise to his successor, Capt. George A. Parker, federal prohibition director for New England, saying: "No finer man could be chosen for the place."

Captain Parker, on his part, would not discuss any plans because his appointment by Commissioner of Public Works William W. Williams is subject to approval by the Governor and executive council.

"Any discussion of plans regarding the job of registrar might embarrass the Governor and council and it is up to me to keep silent for the time being," said Parker.

"Are you going to continue to drive your car?" he was asked. Registrar Goodwin, during his eight years in office, would not drive an automobile or even hold a license.

"Oh, yes," replied Capt. Parker. "A car's practically a necessity now. If other husbands have to drive around as much as I do, they need one. But I haven't any criticism for Mr. Goodwin for his not driving one."

"Registrar Goodwin was very efficient in his position. He is a friend of mine and I am sorry that he was the center of difficulties. I hope my conduct of the office of registrar, if my appointment is confirmed, will be as efficient as his."

Capt. Parker has been New England prohibition director for two and a half years. Previously he made an excellent record as the first head of the State Police, and he was an artillery officer overseas in the World War. He said he had no idea whom the government would choose to succeed him in his Federal office.

PRINCESS SAYS 'ANASTASIA' IS IMPOSTER

With a figurative snap of the fingers and a characteristic Russian shrug of her shoulders, Princess Alexandra Kropotkin, who arrived in Boston today, dismissed the claims of the woman, now the guest in New York of the Leeds family, that she is Princess Anastasia, daughter of the late Czar.

"The Duchess Olga saw this woman who claims to be Anastasia," she said. "Duke Alexander knows her. Their words are sufficient for those who really know. They say she is not what she claims to be."

Princess Alexandra, only daughter of the late Prince Peter Kropotkin, arrived at the Ritz Carlton and will lecture tomorrow night in Ford Hall on "The Russian Riddle."

"This woman is a German," said Princess Kropotkin, her words softened by a charming English accent. "She was an inmate of a hospital. A woman who was in the hospital with her came to me and repeatedly asked for information concerning Anastasia. Four years ago this woman had no scar upon her finger. Today she has one. Four years ago she knew nothing of what she knows today."

$414,000 RAISE FOR HUB 4000 IN TAX BILL

Salary increases totaling $414,000 annually for 4000 city workers are assured if Governor Fuller approves the $12.50 Boston tax limit, even though the latter figure is 25 cents lower than the limit upon which Mayor Nichols based his budget, it was learned at City Hall today.

The salary increases will be allowed by cutting $500,000 from the estimates on other items such as snow removal, municipal ferry service, granolithic sidewalks and the city reserve fund.

Members of the fire and police departments who have attained the maximum salary under the present scale will receive $100 more a year under the proposed increases.

The budget carries a total of $241,500 for salary raises beginning June 1 and until the end of the year. The total for the fiscal year will be $414,100.

Should Governor Fuller fail to approve the $12.50 limit and return the bill to the Legislature for further cut, and should the Legislature sustain him, it is practically certain that the salary increase will be wiped off the budget. It is believed, however, that the Governor will approve the present figure.

Adams of the State commission on the necessaries of life.

Chairman Adams sent a telegram to the landlord, Tony Monterosso, ordering him to replace the windows and notifying him he was violating the law. He also asked the Pittsfield police chief and the local board of health to act.

SAYS "CZAR'S DAUGHTER" IS FRAUD
Princess Alexandra Kropotkin, in Boston to speak at Ford Hall tomorrow night, declared today she does not believe the "Princess Anastasia" is the daughter of the late czar.

SAYS "SUITOR" PROPOSED, THEN STOLE HER CASH

Worcester, March 3 (INS)—Police were asked today to investigate the case of a youth who represented himself to be the son of Governor Ed [illegible] of Indiana and who is alleged to have stolen money from Miss Laura Scott after proposing to her. Miss Scott had written Governor Jackson and learned today, it was stated, his only son is 5 years old and was recently adopted.

4 ACQUITTED OF BREAK IN REVERE A. & P. STORE

Frank Lallin, Joseph Donahue, John Stapleton and Arthur McGonigal, all of Revere, in Suffolk Superior Court, were found not guilty of breaking and entering an A. & P. store at Oak Island, Revere. The break was made about two months ago, and the arrest of the four young men followed. A jury, after listening to the evidence, brought in the verdict of not guilty.

IF U. S. DEPORTS BABY, 'MAMMA' WILL GO

Detroit, March 3 (AP)—If 4-year-old Joseph Boyer, erstwhile heir to millions, is deported from the United States, Mrs. Myron L. Boyer, his foster-mother and the wife of the son of Joseph Boyer, chairman of the board of the Burroughs Adding Machine Co., will go with him.

This was Mrs. Boyer's statement as she prepared today to appear Monday before a special board of inquiry of immigration authorities to determine whether the child must go back to Canada, his place of birth.

Mrs. Boyer said she always will be able to care for the child and will see that he has a good education.

The child has been disclaimed by Myron L. Boyer, who only recently learned he was not his own son. Mrs. Boyer has admitted that four years ago she adopted the child from his Canadian mother and presented him to her husband as his son. She did it, she said, to "save her home."

Boyer's legal proceedings to disinherit the child may deprive him of a $6,000,000 inheritance provided for his "grandson" by the elder Boyer.

ONION AND EGG PEDLAR LEFT $100,000

Greenwich, March 3 (AP)—Reports to the effect that George E. Phipps, onion and egg pedlar and shrewd investor, who was found dead in his combined shack and stable here a few days ago, left an estate consisting of securities valued at several hundred thousand dollars, are characterized by the townspeople, and particularly by George B. Loux, chairman of the board of selectmen, as grossly exaggerated.

The townspeople resent these reports as tending to attract the attention of a small army of "gold-diggers" to the little town. Loux, who has temporarily taken charge of Phipps' affairs, pending the appointment of an administrator of the estate for the benefit of an Amherst woman, the one living relative known, believes that Phipps' estate may reach a total of $100,000.

He and others directed by him have made a most careful search of the premises for securities beginning when negotiable papers worth several thousand dollars were found in an oat sack by a man who undertook to care for Phipps' two horses.

Townspeople recall that in his younger days he was a "dashing blade" who affected fine raiment and attended the country dances and other affairs. A filling he received in a love affair is said to have caused a sudden change in attitude toward life and society and for many years he had lived in the rudest surroundings and almost in squalor.

MAN WITH FLOUR IN FIGHT WITH OFFICER

Two bags of flour, a Roxbury man and a policeman were the three ingredients which got mixed up today and as a result Frank Green, Conant st., Roxbury, is at City Hospital with a lacerated scalp. Patrolman Teixeria is nursing cuts about his hands and the flour was restored to a rightful owner.

Green was toting two sacks of flour on his back when Patrolman Teixeria espied him. There followed a chase after Green refused to halt. Later when the pair caught up with him there took place a fierce fist fight in which both were heaved.

Windows at Driscoll's market at 68 Conant st. were found smashed by Teixeria and the owner said the flour belonged to him. Green will be held on a suspicious person charge.

"Baby Guy" Stillman, over whose legitimacy the most famous love suit of modern times was waged by the New York banker, James A. Stillman, who contended he was the son of an Indian guide. The Stillmans have become reconciled, and Guy accepted. The battle of the Stillmans over young Guy was carried on for several years not only in the United States but also in Canada.

BOSTON SOCIETY FOLK ENLIVEN PALM BEACH, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Ideal Weather Brings Out Big Crowd on Shining Sands of the American Riviera; Tennis Engages Attention of Many of Smart Florida Colony

PALM BEACH, FLA., MARCH 3—LAKE WORTH LIES BLUE AND PLACID, CARRYING on its softly rippling surface the luxurious houseboats of leisure-loving plutocrats. An ocean tropically, royally blue is all sparkle in the sunlight. A cloudless sky gives back the sparkle and the color. Warm sands invite to lounging. And all the society peacocks, of both genders, are on parade. I say both genders, because here in the center of fashion and wealth man is every whit as glorified as the feminine of the species. Birds of gorgeous raiment, and Palm Beach, the one is synonymous with the other.

SYNONYMOUS ALSO ARE PALM BEACH AND ITS ENORMOUS HOTEL, THE ROYAL POINCIANA. Names famed throughout the world have been inscribed on its register at one time and another. Just now it bears the illustrious cognomen, John Hays Hammond. The man known all around the globe for his engineering exploits is at the Palm Beach caravansarie. And with him is his daughter, Miss Natalie Hays Hammond, she who lays down the pen to take up the brush, who writes verse and constructs for the stage with facile ease.

HOWEVER BLUE THE SKY, HOWEVER BRIGHT THE SANDS, HOWEVER GLINTING the wave crests, for color and brilliance and scintillation the fashion parade eclipses everything. Either for the sands or the ocean, the feminine bird of paradise outshines nature's efforts. Exquisite silken things, designed for the boudoir rather than the waves are high in favor. One slender mermaid (or rather sandmaid, for she never went into the water) wore aquamarine satin combined with white. Trousers to simulate a short skirt, a blouse and crepe scarf bound turbanwise about shorn locks made an exquisite beach suit and took a bit of swagger from a short cape of aquamarine.

ANOTHER MERMAID OUTDID THE FABLED CAPTAIN KIDD HIMSELF WITH HER orange satin that put the sun and sea to shame. A cheery suit of bright red took added emphasis from bright red cap and red rubber sandals, from a white wrap designed in red and a parasol of red and white. Nothing more eye arresting on the Brewsters beach than such an ensemble. Bedazzling to the eye also was a slender brunette dazzled out for a dip in the briny in crepe of cerise and deep violet purple. The one banded on the other was unusually smart, and most unusual, and gracefully worn.

MRS. FRANK V. STORRS SET OFF HER PETITE FIGURE AND raven locks with beach wrap of brightest geranium banded in white. A cap of white flaunted a rose flower, and otherwise her beach array was decidedly of the utilitarian and not the flamboyant mode. Chatting with the Jerome Napoleon Bonapartes before her dip, Mrs. Storrs was effectively in contrast with the delicate chiffons worn by Mrs. Bonaparte.

KNOWING HER PENCHANT FOR FROCKS AND HATS OF garden party elaborateness one immediately can picture Mrs. Bonaparte in trailing gossamer fabrics and picture chapeau. Today she was in deep orchid from strapped shoes to wide-brimmed hat and thence to parasol and purse. For the mankind that lends its ornamental presence to the Breakers beach pageant beneath the high noon sun there is William Fhaenstock, of New York and Newport, and not unknown in Boston, and Otto Kahn, that benefactor musically minded who moves on an orbit that includes Boston and Chicago.

MISS LORRAINE LIGGETT STROLLED OVER TO THE BEACH with her wire-haired fox terrier on leash and herself most delectably frocked in white and orchid crepe, geometrically designed. Later she essayed the breakers themselves (on so calm a day they were not formidable) in silken suit and the other accoutrement of shoes and cap as Dame Fashion introduces them to the feminine world via Palm Beach. Miss Liggett and sister, Mrs. Clarke T. Baldwin, are registered at Whitehall, that Palm Beach hostelry enjoying a reputation for extreme exclusiveness.

AFFAIRS STAGED AT THE OASIS CLUB INVARIABLY ARE flavored with a soupcon of unusualness. Such an occasion is the beefsteak dinner Mr. and Mrs. Vance Storrs have sent out cards for. A round hundred guests are asked, since the Oasis has its limitations, consequently lamentations rise to high heavens from those not on the list. Storrs hospitalities have a way of being very jolly, whether they take place in gay Palm Beach or in a metropolitan environment. The city habitat of Mr. and Mrs. Storrs is New York's Ritz-Carlton.

MRS. QUINCY ADAMS SHAW, MRS. BAYARD TUCKERMAN, JR., and Miss Elizabeth Choate playing tennis on Royal Poinciana courts carry to this gay and smart resort some vital Boston interest. Certain of the Boston fashionable set follow the sunshine trail south with tennis the supreme lure. This morning the three just mentioned, with Miss Eleanor Goss, appear in doubles, with finals scheduled for the afternoon. An interested gallery out this afternoon will watch the outcome keenly.

Hearst Papers Plan Bureau to Aid Gold Star Mothers

News that the Boston Evening American and associated Hearst newspapers plan to establish information and aid bureaus for Gold Star Mothers and wives if the Butler Bill becomes law has struck a responsive chord in the hearts of patriotic and understanding people.

The Butler Bill to provide for a pilgrimage of Gold Star Mothers and wives to the graves of their soldier sons and husbands buried overseas awaits now only endorsement by the United States Senate and signature of the President.

When it does become law, the mothers and wives will be enabled by the Hearst new papers to obtain all data and will be aided in making out forms and necessary papers through the bureaus now being prepared.

This will be a service free of charge, and will be done in Boston, as well as other cities, in recognition of the sacrifice made by the women whose loved ones died.

"A Quality Car at the lowest price in our history" John N. Willys, President, The Willys-Overland Company

THE reception being accorded the perfected Whippet at sensationally reduced prices is one of the most memorable events in automotive history.

Since the recent price reduction announcement the popularity of the perfected Whippet has grown by leaps and bounds. Today the four great Willys-Overland plants at Toledo, Elmira, Pontiac and Toronto are being taxed to capacity to meet the demand.

Sets a new High Value Standard

Present light car standards are a tribute to the pioneering the Whippet has done. Four-wheel brakes, lower center of gravity, greater economy, greater roominess, quieter engine operation, faster speed and pickup, greater beauty — are among the advantages in which the Whippet led twenty-two months ago, and continues to lead today.

An Array of Quality Features

Among the many things you will like in the perfected Whippet are improved bodies, full crown fenders, full-pressure lubrication, silent timing chain, gasoline tank in rear, long semi-elliptic springs, oversize (4.75") balloon tires and snubbers, an adjustable steering post, automatic windshield wiper, rear view mirror and stop light.

What, No Half Holiday?

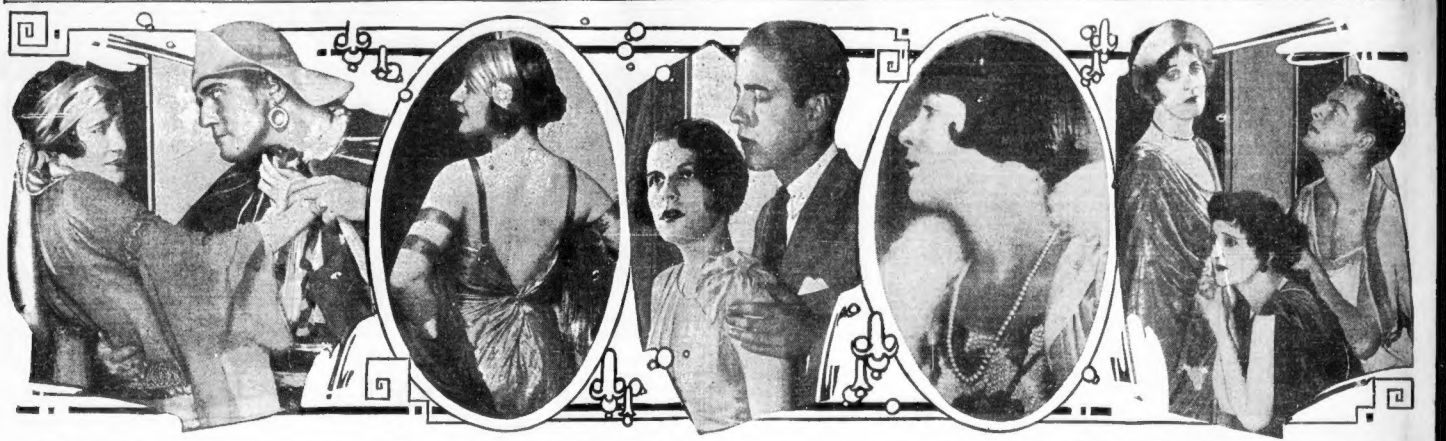
STAGE AND SCREEN

A Slight Difference!
Fritz Leiber, who returns Monday to the Arlington in Shakespearean repertoire, is the natural prey of those who ask foolish questions. "Do you think," asks a sweet young thing, "that Ophelia was really mad?" To which Mr Leiber patiently replies, "I'm an actor, lady, not an alienist."

CLASSICS, ANCIENT AND MODERN, MIX WITH NEW MUSICAL FOR WEEK'S NOVELTIES



THIS MASTERFUL SCENE is, perhaps, presided over by a baritone, and should be the occasion of one of the big song hits of the show. The opening of "Countess Maritza" at the Shubert on Monday will clear this up. (Odette Myrtil and Arthur Geary.)

HELEN GILMORE, contrary to appearances, will not turn her back upon Boston audience. With Mr. Hodge's "Straight Thru the Door" company she will move to the Majestic.

"SATURDAY'S CHILDREN" will come Monday to the Plymouth. Presumably, they are the youthful pair seen above, namely, and to wit, Ruth Gordon and Humphrey Bogart.

CLARA JOEL will toy with the former Belasco problem play, "Ladies of the Evening," next week at the St. James. She will enact the principal character—a tough one.

IN BONDAGE. There were slave problems of several kinds in ancient times—as you discover in "The Road to Rome" at the Wilbur. Joyce Carey (kneeling) and Fairfax Burgher are slaves. Jane Cowl is—married!

ANCIENT MATTER IN MODERN MANNER

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

WHEN the devout apostle of the classics leaps forward and glides safely afield, there is no fixed rule by which an innocent pupil of the arts may even speculate upon the course of the golden trail. These are days of new habits in the theater; days of new flips and flings to catch the furtive eye. Yes, indeed, novelty is the watchword. And keeping step with the times is a case-hardened fact, not merely a gesture. Among the newer exercises designed to intrigue the playgoer, there is none more puissant than the modernist raid upon the classics—and near classics. Both are included in these strategical devices. The classics are being scrubbed and polished with Twentieth Century vernacular and arrayed in sartorial splendor. The expressive language of City Point and toggery from Boylston st. outfitters are casting their own spell upon what the quivering students and solemn professors call the artistic drama.

NATURALLY, these are items of theatrical interest which stir the imagination and stimulate speculation. Currently, for illustration, we have Jane Cowl in "The Road to Rome," a sprightly narrative of how Hannibal stumbled over a cross section of Roman lingerie and afterward enjoyed a wild night at headquarters. What happened to Carthage because of Hannibal's sudden lurch makes another chapter in history. But this interesting story of an army commander, tripped, trapped and seduced, told in good, upstanding American language, has given the playgoer a glimpse of ancient heroes he will hold in cheerful memory for many months.

Fritz Leiber

NEXT in routine order comes Fritz Leiber, a reciter of classic lines whose histrionic fame has stretched from coast to coast, and wherever else Will Shakespeare's plays are being done. Mr. Leiber is sturdily Shakespearean—sturdily, but not heavily. Even in the uncomfortable armor, dubloons and the general what-is-it that goes with the more popular classics, he always has managed to inject human appeal into his lines. He has strutted when necessary, but always he has tempered the struts with flashes of substantial 1928 acting. All of which, undoubtedly, accounts for prevailing Shakespearean epidemic when Fritz Leiber steps off the local train and crooks his finger at the village cat-man.

NOW we are upon the very edge of Mr. Leiber's next venture into his own dear classics. He proposes to enliven his arrival at the Arlington on Monday night with a performance of "The Taming of Shrew" in modern dress. In any form, the role of the impetuous Petruchio would be a good assignment for an actor of Mr. Leiber's talents, but when done in a brown derby and pearl gray spats we are bound to insist that the parading Veronian becomes a character of seasoned importance. The lines will be Shakespeare's; the raiment from Brooks Brothers. What finer tribute could be paid to either Mr. Shakespeare or Mr. Brooks. Fritz Leiber blends them amiably, heroically, into the ultimate pinnacle of the higher arts.

HODGE MOVES TO MAJESTIC

Although "Straight Thru the Door," by and with the famous actor-playwright, William Hodge, was originally scheduled to leave for Chicago tonight, following its engagement at the Plymouth, local theatregoers have been so captivated by the star in his latest comedy that it has been arranged to move this attraction from the Plymouth to the larger Majestic where Mr. Hodge will appear for two weeks only beginning Monday night.

The comedy departs from Mr. Hodge's customary offerings in that it has a well-developed mystery story running throughout the play. Mr. Hodge's usual dry and homely humor, however, is to be found in the texture of the piece.

The stellar role is that of a reknowned stage star spending a summer amid the confusion and turmoil of a home in the process of being completed.

Ever Faithful

CLARA BOW remains true to the cause of aviation—and has been so for some weeks past as the heroine of "Wings."

THE SOURCE OF "WINGS"

Ever since the opening of "Wings," the great war-in-the-air picture now at the Tremont, war fliers have been asking if the story wasn't drawn from the life of Frank Luke, the Arizona Ace. They caught a resemblance between Luke's character and that of the hero in "Wings" and they recognized the likeness of the Rogers-Arlen flying team to that of Luke and Wehrher at the front.

Was the similarity merely an accident? Or was the author of "Wings" familiar with Luke's career and his ill-starred friendship with Lieut. Wehrher? The question was put directly to John Monk Saunders, the author, in Hollywood. Without the slightest hesitation he owned his acquaintance with Luke and confessed that he had drawn upon him for his main character in the picture. In point of fact, Saunders said that the tragic Luke-Wehrher friendship at the front was not only reminiscent of that of Arlen and Rogers in "Wings," but constituted the main theme of the great air picture.

Harry Lauder and Company Coming to the Colonial

Sir Harry Lauder is announced as the attraction at the Colonial during the week opening Monday, March 12. This will be Lauder's first appearance in a downtown theater in years. The Scottish singer comes direct from his six weeks' engagement in New York at the Knickerbocker Theater, where his extended engagement proved to be the longest he has ever played in Manhattan. Lauder opened his engagement with a program that offered all the songs he sang at his first appearance in New York twenty years ago. It is planned to also revive in Boston the songs offered at his original appearance in this city.

Sir Harry Lauder.

FILM MAN HONORED

THE AMATEUR HUSBAND

Sailor's Lass

LOUISE GROODY and her jolly mariner friends will hit town with "Hit the Deck" at the Tremont on Monday, March 12.

RUTH GORDON GETS A JOB

Freshly graduated from the Sargent School of Dramatics, Ruth Gordon, star of "Saturday's Children" at the Plymouth, "crashed the gate" of the Frohman office in New York, presented her diploma as evidence that she was fitted to play parts, and demanded an engagement. She was told that the only unfilled part in Maude Adams' production of "Peter Pan" was that of "Nita," which required that its performer be merely a dancer. Miss Gordon was ranged with a lot of other applicants and the stage director began to try out candidates. It is recorded that he appeared very disconsolate over the result.

Miss Gordon knew little about stage dancing. But a role was a role and a part with Maude Adams was worth straining every effort to get. She must have satisfied the disconsolate director for she was cast for "Nita" and played it when the show opened. Miss Adams was so impressed with the young dancer's personality that she made her her understudy and also for several other parts in "The Little Minister." Her most vivid recollections are those days spent hoping that someone whom she was understudying, would become ill and give her a chance to play their role—but no one ever did.

"ROCKY" STONE ACTOR

Emmanuel ("Rocky") Stone, well known heavyweight boxer, will make his debut on the stage Monday at the New Wollaston Theatre when he takes the role of "The Unbeaten Terror" in the drama, "Little Old New York." "Rocky," as a pugilist, has always been a "draw" in local boxing exhibitions on account of the amusing antics with which he has regaled the fans

BANCROFT IS STARRED IN NEW FILM

Not only does "The Showdown," George Bancroft's first starring picture for Paramount depict with fidelity the feverish life of the oil fields, but it also presents a love story and a drama of emotions just as powerful as Bancroft's sensational "Underworld."

Theatre audiences who were enthralled by the extraordinary vitality and dramatic power shown by Bancroft in "Underworld," will find in this new vehicle an even greater example of this player's mastery of his art.

Heading the supporting cast are Evelyn Brent, Neil Hamilton, Fred Kohler, Arnold Kent and Leslie Fenton. Victor Schertzinger directed.

The week's new stage piece is a musical festival called "Gallopin' On." Frank Cummins, who has accomplished some of the very best productions on the Metropolitan stage, designed the new presentation. In it, around it and through it, sportive comedians, pretty girls and talented comedians are discovered.

The genial Mr. Rodewich leads the band, rides to hounds and explains matters to the audience. The contributing artists are the Bachelor Octet, the Felicia Sorel Girls, the Equestrienne Quartet, Miriam Lax, soprano, and Robert Cloy, tenor.

Boston Soprano in Joint Recital at Symphony

Lucretia Goddard Bush, popular 19-year-old Boston soprano, and Mario Basiola, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Co., will give a joint recital at Symphony Hall tomorrow evening. This will be he only appearance of Miss Bush in Boston this season, and will be her first important concert. She won spectacular success in leading soprano roles in "Faust" and "Carmen" with the San Carlo Opera Co. at the Boston Opera House at the time of her debut a year and a half ago. Basiola, after a season traveling in opera in the United States, made his debut at the Metropolitan Opera House as Amonasro in "Aida," in 1925.

NOVELTY BY WALTON AT SYMPHONY

By MOSES SMITH

Since Symphony concerts have become a study in contrasts, this week's pair by the Boston Symphony Orchestra follows the storm and stress of Stravinsky's "Oedipus Rex" with far less debatable music. Not that the moderns are eschewed, for that is not Mr. Koussevitsky's way.

There is even a novelty—Walton's Sinfonia Concertante for orchestra and piano. The English composer, whose only previous composition to be heard here, "Portsmouth Point," was universally praised, has turned out an equally pleasing work, which the audience applauded heartily. There was evident the same racy English idiom, the smack of the composer's individuality in treatment, his exuberant rhythms and orchestration. The performance, in which Bernard Zighera played the piano solo, seemed to adhere to the spirit, if not the letter of the printed score.

Prokofiev's "Scythian Suite," which was one of Mr. Koussevitsky's first excursions into modernism when he came here, was played for the second time. Many have wondered why the conductor has waited almost four seasons before repeating a work that made notable impression at its first performance here. To be frank, this second hearing was not quite so stimulating as the first, for we have made much progress along the modernist road since then.

Perhaps, too, the work was not quite so well performed yesterday. Nevertheless it remains vivid tonal photography of the most exciting kind 14 years after its composition. The suggestion, in the first movement of the march of savages about the sacrificial altar, and the marvelous climax of the fourth movement when brass instruments join shivering strings in frenzied unison are extraordinary achievements not only in orchestration but in musical suggestion.

Brahms the dramatic, the tragic, the mellow, the exultant of the first symphony completed the program. The performance was of the poetic nature with which Mr. Koussevitsky has familiarized us. Let us forget details in the magnificent whole.

HELD BY THE ENEMY

THE ARMY TAKES A HAND in the affairs of Evelyn Brent. As a Russian revolutionist she discovers it is perilous to engage the military. Emil Jannings as the "army" in "The Last Command," (Scollay)

Time Out for Jolson

Al Jolson seems to have abandoned steady work. He might make pictures such as "The Jazz Singer," now at the Modern and Beacon, and he might make separate personal appearances here and there. But Lee Shubert mourns: "Al feels fine until he goes to work for me, then he gets sick."

STAGE AND SCREEN

Terms Satisfactory!

When D'Artagnan engages the comic Plancher as his valet in "The Three Musketeers," the little clown says he wants the job because he is homesick. "But," asks D'Artagnan, is this not your home?" "Oh, yes," chirps Plancher, "this is my home all right, but I'm sick of it."

NEW ADVENTURES IN FILM SHOWS RUN CHIEFLY TO MELODRAMA, PLAIN AND FANCY

NOT MANY A MAN is now alive who sticks to the old fashioned gallus. This type of vanishing American is portrayed by Gary Cooper in "Doomsday," with Florence Vidor at the Keith-Albee Boston.

TOUGH! In "The Noose" at the Washington Street Olympia there is a ruff-neck and a roughneck—Lina Basquette and Richard Barthelmess respectively.

IGNITION AND IGNOMINY in "Man, Woman and Sin" at Loew's Orpheum. John Gilbert discovers his light o' love. And Jeanne Eagels discovers that once again she must be "no lady."

IN THE MEXICAN LEXICON there is no such word as fall for "de best dam caballero." Consequently, Noah Beery, as this remarkable person, is sure of his powers over Norma Talmadge in "The Dove" at Loew's State.

DOUBLE SHUFFLES IN PHOTO DRAMA

By LEO GAFFNEY

LIKE the highly efficient gentleman who happily combined the purpose of racing for a train with training for a race, he movies are fast developing the knack of doing two things t once. In Norma Talmadge's new film, "The Dove," on view next week at Loew's State, the producers were smack up against it to find a safe middle ground between His Satanic Majesty and the well known deep blue sea. If they acknowledged the film's "bad man" character to be a Mexican—as he certainly is—then trade in Mexico and Latin-American regions generally, was due for a slump. If, on the other hand, they were to thoroughly expatriate him, then look out for bad business on Broadway and Main st. How to portray a Mexican who was not a Mexican, that was the question!

COURAGEOUSLY ignoring the great man, whoever he was, who said that no sane person may hope to please everybody, "The Dove's" producers set about with the Napoleonic fortitude to make circumstances." They first allowed their sober minds to dwell on the prodigious "flop" the Holbrook Blinn style of bad-man characters had been in localities south of the Rio Grande. The Mexican exhibitors had been struck affronted by the realism of Mr. Blinn's acting—especially when the subtitles conferred upon him an unmistakably Mexican name.

SECONDLY, the deep-thinking proxies were not unmindful of the fallacy of trying to foist "The Dove" upon an American audience stripped of its justly famous figure, "de best dam caballero in all Mexico." For a while, the situation seemed hopeless until—like a flash—a brilliant idea! Why not sidestep the Mexican issue altogether, and call the langerous hombre "de best dam caballero in Costa Roja"? Ever hear of Costa Roja? Well, hardly, because it was hastily discovered by the same inventive mind who finds names for all the "mythical kingdomes" in the movies' costume drama.

* * *

BY this simple expedient "The Dove" may be seen and enjoyed by all Mexican school children without fear of injury to national pride. For, as Roy Atwood used to say in the "Americana" revue, "their little minds, as we all know, are just like wax." No-sir-ee! the movies will never intentionally plant the seed of animosity on foreign soil—not while they are ambitious!

PERHAPS it is ambition, again, which prompts that great tragedian, Al Jolson, to announce that his next motion picture will be—imagine!—an adaptation of the opera "Pagliacci." It is to be presumed that Mr. Jolson anticipates no difficulty, as long as the Vitaphone holds out, in mixing some of the well-known opera arias with a set of hot songs especially steamed up for the occasion. These "numbers" must of course be done in black-face with attendant writhings, and casting up of the eyes. Then, too, he will somehow work in a good word for Dixie. One must be resourceful modern motion pictures!

GRAND OPERA IN ENGLISH

The American Opera Company, presenting opera in English with all-American casts, will have a two weeks' season in Boston beginning March 12, at the Hollis. It will present seven operas beginning with Gounod's "Faust" on Monday evening, March 12. "Madame Butterfly" will be given Tuesday evening, March 13. "Martha" on Wednesday afternoon. Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" Wednesday evening; "Pagliacci" on Thursday evening, with an original program by Michio Ito, Japanese dancer; Mascagni's "Abbotton from the Seraglio" Friday evening; "Faust" Saturday afternoon; "Carmen" Saturday evening, with the talented young singer, Brownie Peebles, as the famous cigarette girl.

Brownie Peebles

The American Opera Company was established last spring as direct sequel of the visit of the Rochester American Opera Company to New York, where they gave a week of opera under the auspices of the Theater Guild.

It appeared evident at that time that the public was eager for opera that it could understand, that would present young American singers trained dramatically as well as musically. The America Opera Company was organized then under the sponsorship of The American Society for Opera in English, Inc.

Most Expensive Cure

The character of old Dick Varwell in "Yellow Sands," at the Copley, is described as that of a philosopher. Mr. Clive plays him and, having the following lines to speak, proves the point: "A sure way to change an anarchist's principles is to let him fall in the way of wealth."

STAGE AND SCREEN

Bigger, Better, Busier

Jane Cowl, star of "The Road to Rome," is noted for long engagements. "Smilin' Thru" she played more than a thousand times. In "Romeo and Juliet" she established the longest consecutive run of any Shakespearean play. She has appeared nearly 500 times in her present play.

MENJOU WILL WED SOON IN PARIS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

LOS ANGELES, March 3—Adolphe Menjou, debonair screen hero, will wed the fair haired Kathryn Carver in Paris on May 7. All plans for a Hollywood wedding in the midst of their friends were abandoned when an offer came to the bride-to-be of a starring contract in a series of French pictures. She leaves for New York March 10 and they sail on the Paris March 24.

They will be married in the French capital a month sooner than the day originally set for their nuptials. Menjou's plans for the time being, are on the air, so to speak.

The option on his contract, held by Paramount, expires April 24. If the film company demands its pound of actor and insists that he resume his picture-making activities, he will return to this country. If not, he will accept an offer made him to produce pictures abroad.

I SHOULD call, without an equivocation, Jack Holt's return to Famous Players a distinct victory for the actor. A few months ago Paramount decided there was not enough demand for the Wild West thrillers that symbolized the Holt drama. The former pride of the West left the home studio to freelance.

The fans missed his riding in Zane Grey westerns, and said so. The result is that he has been reassigned by Famous Players, at $20,000 a picture, and he will make four. I suppose in a few weeks we shall see him rescuing the maiden and riding out to the setting sun on his favorite broncho.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN is full of promises that he will begin work on his next comedy in March. Those who know the little comedian well realize how much time it takes him to prepare a story and how many days to actually get into production. So it's only natural he should be discussing his pinne now.

Charlie always prefers to choose his leading woman from the realms of the unknown. He likes to develop his players. Adolphe Menjou is one example of this, Morna Kennedy is another and so is Georgia Hale. Whether they make good when they leave Charlie or not is entirely up to the person.

There is some talk that Chaplin will caste the little blonde, Josephine Dunn, as his leading lady in his next picture, probably "The Saleide Club." She is a graduate of the Paramount school and up to now has had little or no chance with Famous, with whom she has been assigned.

ALL any actor has to do in Hollywood is to visit a strange studio once and the gossips have him finding a new job for himself. George Bancroft was seen several times in conference with Joseph Schenck and the report circulated like wildfire that the smiling villain of the movies had left Famous.

The truth of the matter is that Bancroft has purchased the beach house of Joseph Schenck and his numerous visits were to settle on a price.

Cannon Has Designs Upon All Points of Compass

Some day, Norman Cannon, "the much-traveled actor" of the E. E. Clive organization at the Copley, is going to complete a journey which, so far, has taken him nearly around the world. "I've been in India, Africa and the Transvaal and in many parts of South America, either on military duty or in the theater," said Mr. Cannon. Continuing, he said he plans to travel around the other side of the world, to Australia, China and other sections of the Orient. At the time the World War opened, Mr. Cannon was playing at the Drury Lane theater in London. He traveled into France with his regiment of infantry, where he spent three and one-half years. Later, he toured the Far East, played in stock companies in South America, and then journeyed to New York, where he met Mr. Clive.

All contestants are requested to send their names as soon as possible to the manager of the Scollay.

"Hit the Deck," Songs and All, Coming to Tremont

Vincent Youmans, the composer producer of the season's outstanding nautical musical comedy success, has composed no less than fifteen new song melodies for his new show, "Hit the Deck," and at least two of them have already become acknowledged song hits of the nation.

Mr. Youmans' production of "Hit the Deck" with the entire original cast exactly as seen on Broadway for eleven months, comes to the Tremont for a limited engagement beginning Monday, March 12th.

The cast is headed by Louise Groody and prominently featured in important roles are Charles King, Madeline Cameron and Stella Mayhew, while Franker Wood has one of the principal comedy roles.

GREIG FINDS UTOPIA IN OPERETTA

The story is told of a famous actor who was asked "What is your greatest ambition?" He replied: "To throw an egg into an electric fan."

Similarly, Robert Greig has just realized the second great ambition of his long career by his role in "Countess Maritza," opening Monday at the Shubert.

Greig has played almost every kind of role, including Shakespearean parts. His desire, however, has been to do that for which Nature never intended him. He has always wanted to dance and sing.

As a pompous prince in "Countess Maritza," the corpulent farceur is given a dancing part. Each night as he leaves the stage after his dozen steps, he pants between smiles, which sounds better, perhaps, than saying he smiles between pants. "How's that for flinging my heels?" he puffs. "I've always told them I could dance."

Last year in "The Student Prince" he was given his singing part. It did not turn out as he had expected. He was extremely dubious that his voice would hold out when he was given a huge music roll of the entire score of the operetta. He was almost afraid to unroll the music.

But when he did, it took him five minutes to discover his aria. He finally found it in the middle of the score. He learned that he was to render the single word, "Highness!" But the crushing blow to his pride came when he found that after the "Highness!" was written "(Spoken)."

COMPASS CLUB CONCERT

Perry's Ye Olde New England Choir, of Boston, will furnish the entertainment Sunday afternoon at the Square and Compass Club, Masonic Temple. This mixed quartet of Boston artists will take the audience on an imaginary trip "Down Memory's Lane" and show the progress in music from the days of the Pilgrims until the present, in four costumed periods—the Puritan, Colonial, Abolitionist and Modern.

FORD OPENS HIS BOYS' SCHOOL MONDAY

Sudbury, March 3 (AP)—Henry Ford will open on Monday next his long-projected industrial school for boys in this town.

The thirty pupils for whom accommodations have been provided will be state wards about 14 years old, who are now inmates of state schools.

At the start two instructors will be employed. A regular academic course of high school grade will be conducted and in addition the boys will be given training in various crafts.

The school will be housed in the old colonial Howe mansion, not far from Mr. Ford's Wayside Inn. The house has been remodelled to form a combination dormitory and class rooms. A matron will have the care of the boys outside of school hours.

A small textile mill is in process of construction nearby and there will also be a wood-working shop. The boys will be instructed in these lines and also in electrical work.

It is understood that any boy showing marked aptitude for a special kind of work will be given advanced instruction and that Mr. Ford has held out the prospect of employment in Detroit for such boys at the end of their four years' course.

M'ADOO TO FIGHT FOR WALSH IN CALIFORNIA

Washington, March 3 (AP)—William G. McAdoo today confirmed the announcement of his friends that he would head a fight in California for Senator Walsh of Montana for President, and predicted that Walsh would have the California delegation.

In a three-sentence statement, Mr. McAdoo, a two-time candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said it was correct that he would be on the slate of Walsh delegates in California, but he did not go into campaign issues or mention whether he would use his influence for Walsh in other states.

Senator Walsh said today that while he had assented to the entry of his name in the Democratic presidential preference primaries in Wisconsin, South Dakota and California, he had no campaign plans and no thought "of quitting my duties here to promote my candidacy, if such it may be called."

The Montanian issued this formal statement:

"The published mention in the press to enter me as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in the states of Wisconsin, South Dakota and California has in no sense been inspired by me, though in each case I have assented to the plans of friends contemplating such action."

"I have no campaign plans and no thought of quitting my duties here to promote my candidacy, if such it may be called."

BAR SENATORS AS JUDGES

It has previously been indicated that the L. A. W. Acceptance Corporation will be the subject of questioning during the investigation of Reading. Atty.-Gen. Reading is a director of the Boston subsidiary of this corporation. Rep. Frank A. Brainerd of South Hadley, who was appointed a member of the investigating committee, resigned because he was formerly a director of another subsidiary of the L. A. W. Acceptance Corp.

It was also disclosed today that Charles E. Hatfield of Newton, Middlesex County treasurer and former chairman of the Republican State Committee, who urged Reading to resign rather than face possible impeachment, is president of one of the L. A. W. Acceptance Corporation if Boston, of which Reading is a director.

Investigators ascertained the fact from papers filed with State authorities when the company was organized.

These papers show that the name of the parent company is the United L. A. W. Acceptance Corporation and that there were subsidiaries under the names of the L. A. W. Acceptance Corporation of Brockton-Boston, eastern Middlesex, Essex County, Fall River, Framingham, Greenfield, Holyoke, Lawrence, Lowell, New Bedford and Pittsfield.

The companies were organized to engage in automobile financing. The Boston corporation is capitalized at $1,000,000 and was organized April 2, 1927.

BAR NUDE DANCE IN LYNN COURT

A suggestion made by Mayor Ralph B. Bauer that Miss Eva Simmons, Boston Oriental dancer, arrested while dancing for Lynn lawyers and business men, be permitted to give an exhibition in court, was firmly rejected by Judge Ralph W. Reeves in Lynn district court today.

"Such things may be permissible in City Hall," said Judge Reeves as he ushered the mayor out of his lobby, "but they are not allowed in my court."

The incident occurred after he had found Miss Simmons guilty of being lewd, and had fined her $25, she paid.

MUSSOLINI AND KING AT FUNERAL OF DIAZ

Rome, March 3 (INS)—A state funeral was held today for Marshal Armando Diaz, Italy's war hero and former commander-in-chief of the Italian army.

Premier Mussolini and King Emanuel were in the funeral procession, as well as representatives of foreign governments. Business was at a standstill throughout Rome.

Included in other bills were those of London merchants for clothing, one of these alone amounting to $37,938.77.

Approximately 20 claims have been filed, according to the accounting, which covers handling the estate from Oct. 15, 1926, to Nov. 30, 1927.

Martin is charged with receiving stolen goods and conspiracy to commit larceny. It was at his house in Cromwell st., Marblehead, that police recovered $5000 worth of leather.

Martin was released in $5000 bail for a hearing in District Court Monday. Accountants today were aiding the authorities by going over the books of the Benz Company with a view to ascertaining how much leather disappeared from stock in the last five years.

Raze Birthplace of Morse, Telegraph Inventor

The birthplace of Samuel Finley Breese Morse, inventor of the telegraph, built at what is now 201 Main st., Charlestown, shortly after the reoccupation of the town by the American forces, is falling before the onward march of progress.

The old house, once the mansion of Capt. Robert Hall Edes, is being torn down to make way for a block of stores, and it is expected it will be razed within the next 30 days.

The inventor was born in the house on April 27, 1791, while his father and mother, the Rev. and Mrs. Jedediah Morse, were guests of Thomas Edes, Sr., while the parsonage on the hill was being erected. The casing around the fireplace in the room in which Morse was born, together with the colonial stairway and balustrade, will be retained by the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiques.

CHALK UP A POINT FOR MR. PEDESTRIAN. There may be enjoyment in riding, but there is also suffering as can be seen in this photo. This remarkable picture was taken during a motorcycle race on a dirt track at London. Galloway, an Australian rider, failed to make the turn properly and was thrown from his machine. He was one of the featured riders, as this is a very popular sport in Australia. The thrills received from this type of racing have made the sport popular in England.

CRIMSON FAVORED TO WIN

Bottling Palmer and Using Two Full Teams Gives It Edge Over Yale Tonight

Tonight's Hockey Lineup at Arena

HARVARD		YALE
Gliddens, Lakin, rw.		Palmer
Chase, Holbrook, c.		Vaughn, West
Tudor, Wetmore, lw.		Curtis, Wilson
Howard, M. Holbrook, c.		Ryan
Saltonstall, A. Bigelow, rd.		McCoy
Morrill, g.		Hurd

By BILL GRIMES

One of the largest crowds of the season will be at the Boston Arena tonight, when Harvard and Yale play the second game of their annual hockey series. Every ticket has been disposed of and as only a limited number of admissions can be sold, thousands of fans are doomed to disappointment.

As Harvard come through with a 2 to 1 victory down in New Haven a week ago, the Crimson is favored to wind up the series tonight. It was by stopping "Ding" Palmer, that Harvard managed to draw first blood. Palmer is the outstanding college player in this country. He has scored no less than 57 goals this season, but he was stopped in his tracks by the Crimson in the first game.

WILL COVER YALE STAR

Harvard will resort to the same style of play against Palmer that was used in New Haven. Coach Joe Stubbs will assign two men to cover Palmer and if the players who are to watch the Yale star are as successful tonight as they were a week ago, the Crimson has better than an even chance of victory.

Harvard has one of the strongest and best balanced teams in its history. Therefore Coach Stubbs can afford to double up on Palmer without noticeably weakening the Harvard defense.

As far as the first teams are concerned Yale is almost even with Harvard, but the Elis lack the high class replacements of the Crimson. Yale has no spares of any marked ability, despite the fact that there are 22 men on the squad.

In his first game, Coach Wannamaker elected to play through with as few substitutions as possible. Although the Yale team is in first class condition no club can expect to stand up against the speed of Harvard, and at the risk of weakening his chances of victory the Yale coach must substitute tonight.

TWO FULL HARVARD TEAMS

Coach Stubbs has two combinations ready for Yale. He will start Capt. Johnnie Chase at center with Bobbey Gliddens and John Tudor on the wings and will have Willie Howard and Bill Saltonstall on the outer defense with Joe Morrill in the goals.

Guy Holbrook, Lakin and Wetmore will do the forward line relief work and Mike Bigelow twins, Bert and Hugh, will replace Howard and Saltonstall. If the game is close, Joe Morrill will play throughout. Otherwise, Elkins will be sent to the nets during the final minutes.

Yale must depend upon Capt. Dick Vaughan, "Ding" Palmer and Paul Curtis to carry the offense. This trio is one of the strongest in the college ranks, and during the early stages of the game is expected to overshadow the Crimson.

If Yale comes through with a win, the teams will play the third game in New Haven next Wednesday night.

Locke Turns Down Dodger Offer

Clearwater, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Roland Locke, star Nebraskan outfielder, has declined with thanks an offer by Wilbert Robinson to try out for an outfielder's post with the Brooklyn Dodgers. In a telegram from New York, Locke said he did not desire to alter his standing as an amateur. He pointed out that he was a candidate for the Olympics.

KOJAC BREAKS WORLD'S SWIMMING RECORD

New York, March 3 (AP)—George Kojac of the Boys' Club has established a world's record by winning the Metropolitan A. A. U. senior 150-yard back stroke swimming championship by 1:24 2-5. Kojac set the new mark competing in a 75-foot pool at the water carnival at the New York A. C. club.

The listed international standard of 1:46 by George Ponler of the New York A. C. was beaten by Kojac at New Haven several days ago when he claimed a time of 1:39 4-5.

JOHNSTON SETS UP NEW WORLD'S SKATE RECORD

Cleveland, O., March 3 (AP)—Percy H. Johnston of Detroit set a new world's indoor three-quarters of a mile speed record here tonight in winning the senior events in the preliminaries of the international indoor skating meet sponsored by the Ohio State Skating Association.

His time was 3 min. 2-5 sec. He also holds the three-mile record.

ELIS WILL SEE RED AGAINST THESE HARVARD BOYS

HARVARD PREFERS BLONDES IN ITS SECOND FORWARD LINE AND YALE

Will see plenty of speed when these breeze boys step into action in the big hockey game at the Arena tonight. When Harvard's first line's speed burns out these boys carry on with a savage attack. This second line, from left to right, Bill Wetmore, left wing; Guy Holbrook, center, and Bill Lakin, right wing. At left is Joe Morrill, the Crimson's crack goalie, who went green in only one game this season. Joe wears his old Middlesex school baseball cap for luck. With Joe at his best it's a net gain for the Crimson.

By GENE TUNNEY
World's Heavyweight Champion

ABOUT the most foolish thing a boxer can do is to try to make the ring a place for conversation. Yet there are some great conversationalists still going strong. But all they ever did was to waste their breath.

"Now I'm going to sock you over the left eye," said one of the opponents I had when I was a novice in the game. He did. But that was all he did. I clipped him one and scored my first knockout.

Outside of an exclamation or two, I never have talked during a fight. Moreover, the better men I meet the more silent they are. I've heard a lot of quotations about what Jack Dempsey said to me in our bouts, but I think they're wrong.

Jack Dempsey attends to the business at hand and does not try to add conversation to his already great accomplishments with his fists.

BUT it's all a rather amusing story—this thing of an opponent trying to talk you out of a fight. I'll admit that there are a lot of talkers who apparently have gotten away with a great deal of conversation, but they had something else to begin with.

The conversation was a sort of decoration. It delights the boys at the ringside and at the press tables, but, by the time it is passed about, it runs into genuine monologue proportions.

I have encountered several opponents who apparently thought that they had hypnotic powers.

"Is this the set-up I have been put against?" I heard one opponent say, just after we had touched gloves and were ready to go.

The fight ended in the third round.

"Who's your undertaker?" said another one and that was that after three rounds of less trouble than I have with some sparring partners.

AT any rate, Benny Leonard, the peerless lightweight, was a great conversational boxer. I have seen some great baseball pitchers and catchers who used their tongues to good advantage in beating their opponents, but Benny had oratorical ability that got most of his foes on the anxious seat.

He was convincing, to say the least, as any boxer will tell you. Joe Welling, the great lightweight who is known in every city of the United States where boxing flourishes, was Benny's greatest grief. Joe had a line himself that would have done credit to a book salesman.

HARVARD POLO TEAM PLAYS YALE TONIGHT

The Commonwealth Armory will be the mecca for all lovers of Pony Polo tonight and seat accommodations will be at a premium for those great rivals Harvard and Yale clash there in the first contest of the series.

The game will start at 7:30 p. m. in order to let those who wish attend the hockey match at the Arena, where the Crimson and Blue sixes battle.

The contest at the Armory promises to be an exciting and fast contest, with the Crimson mallet wielders a slight favorite.

The Harvard trio as composed at present, with Joe Cotton at No. 1, Holden White at No. 2 and Forrester Clark at back, Burnett, Williams and Mundell as spares, is about the best combination that ever represented the Cambridge college.

Not much is known of the Eli trio, but it is safe to predict that they will be worthy representatives and will be in there fighting every minute.

A league contest between the Battery A and Lancer tries will follow the college match, and this should be an interesting affair, for the teams are very evenly matched.

A victory for the Bruins will mean that they will be back in first place once again leading the American field as the teams square away for the final three weeks' battle to the play-off round.

New York, March 3 (AP)—The 52nd annual outdoor track and field championships of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. were awarded to Harvard University at the association's yearly meeting today. The meet will be held at Cambridge May 26.

The applications for membership of Notre Dame and Alfred universities were tabled by the delegates. It was decided to hold up action until the next meeting so that further information may be obtained as to the two institutions' eligibility rules.

By the time the next meeting is held, the I. C. A. A. A. W. will have prepared standard blanks asking specific questions as to each college's stand on the eligibility question.

GOOD HITTERS ON B. C. NINE THIS YEAR

Coach Hugh Duffy of Boston College seems to have one of the hardest hitting outfits in the East this spring. The veteran diamonder, after glancing over last season's percentages and taking a peek at this spring's roster feels confident that this enemy pitchers will have their hands full when the Eagle batting lineup starts its combardment.

Boston College's team and a batting average of almost .300 last spring and all the heavy stickers with the exception of McNamara are back again. Those who clubbed for over .300 last season are Capt. McMeniman, Fred Morcewicz, Fat Clinton, Joe Fitzgerald, Hank O'Day and Tom O'Brien.

Many more were close up to this mark and there wasn't a player on the entire B. C. squad who couldn't step up and deliver a good hit often enough to satisfy the most critical coach.

It seems strange not to see the name of Al Weston among the B. C. sluggers but it will be remembered that Weston, although he played in every game, had one of his poorest seasons and his mark was low when the curtain was brought down.

Weston led the collegiate world in batting his first year at the Heights with an average of more than .400. He was expected to do even better last spring. An eye trouble held the B. C. star back. He could hit pretty well but not enough to fulfill the high expectations of all his B. C. rooters.

Weston is due for a big season. He came out of his slump during the Fred season with the South Boston team and should start his old-time slugging as soon as the team gets on the outdoor diamond at Newton.

Capt. Fred McMenimen is one of the most consistent hitters on the nine. He doesn't startle the world but manages to rap out a single or so a game and keep his average up with the best of them. Tom O'Brien, sub catcher, is also a good sticker and because of this fact will be used frequently in the outfield and as a pinch hitter.

ANZAC TENNIS STAR BEATS BOROTRA

Adelaide, South Australia, March 3 (AP)—James Crawford, youthful Australian tennis star, today defeated the French Davis cup player, Jean Borotra, 6—3, 9—11, 6—2 in the second day's play of a series of matches between Australia and France. The Australian's victory brought the match score to three all.

The Crawford-Borotra fight produced some of the finest tennis ever seen in Adelaide. The young Australian player, who captured the Victorian tennis championship in 1926, gave an almost faultless display of splendid backhand play, keeping Borotra away from the net.

In a doubles game the Australian team of Gerald L. Patterson and J. M. Hone defeated Borotra and Christian Boussus, 6—3, 6—2, 6—1. The lightning service of the veteran Hone amazed the French players.

BOB JASSE HAS BIG CHANCE

Bob Jasse, boxing pride of Revere, and one of the New England headliners in the middleweight division, gets his big chance on Monday night at the Crescent A. C., Lynn, when he clashes in the feature bout of 10 rounds, opposing Jimmy Amato White of New York.

A win for Jasse will force Arthur Flynn and Laddie Lea out into the open for a main attraction in the near future.

Matchmaker Tom Goodwin of the Suffolk A. A. has offered the Lawrence battler a good purse to get into the ring with Jasse.

However, Jasse will find a stiff customer in Jimmy Amato White. The latter has met the best boys from all sections of the country during the last few years.

The Jasse-White bout will be well supported by an evenly balanced card for the semi-final and preliminary bouts.

Petiolle Signed to Battle Mandell

Chicago, March 3 (AP)—The impasse into which the lightweight championship fight negotiations have passed may give Billy Petrolle, "The Fargo Express," a chance at Sammy Mandell's title in place of Jimmy McLarnin.

Jack Hurley, Petrolle's manager, announced in Minneapolis that Petrolle has signed to engage in a championship fight with Mandell here June 21.

Promoter Jim Mullen, who holds Mandell's agreement to defend his title in Chicago this summer, will promote the match, Hurley said.

Can't Beat 'em

By Frank G. Menke

THE "handbook" man knows few happier moments than when one of his players makes a play on a "field" horse at a pari mutuel track. For thus comes the chance for him to reap a possible fortune for himself by use of the player's money—and without the risk of a dollar of his own.

In explanation: Many years ago, when the pari mutuel wagering system first was installed in this country, the machines were so arranged that there were only ten slots for tickets, meaning room for betting tickets on only ten horses.

Inasmuch as more than ten horses generally run in a race, something had to be done—and was done—to meet the perplexing problem.

As a result, in all races where more than ten horses are entered, the track handicapper arranges the horses in the order in which he thinks they will finish. A separate slot is apportioned for tickets on each of the first nine horses. The tenth and final slot is called the "field slot" and represents all the other horses running in the race.

This means that all horses beyond the first nine are grouped together in the "field." Individual tickets are not sold at the track on any of these horses. If a player at the track wants to bet on a horse that happens to be in the "field" he is sold a "field" ticket. If the horse he fancies should win, or if any other "field" horse wins, the player cashes his bet.

BUT the cunning "handbook" man forces his player to observe a rule which is an absolute contradiction of the law at the track.

"The horse you specify must be the actual winner; otherwise your bet is lost. I will not pay off if a complete field horse wins."

Why don't the players revolt—why do they not insist that the "handbook" man adhere to the rules of the race track? Well, because the men who play the "handbooks" are "suckers" by inheritance and development and that "suckers" ever are a divided legion of boobs while the "handbook" men are a united group of shrewd persons who make rules of benefit only to themselves.

Whenever the "suckers" make a play with a "handbook" man, on a "field horse," the latter promptly wires his agent at the track and instructs him to make the bet in the machines ON THE FIELD. After which one of three things happens:

(1) If none of the field horses win, the bet is lost—with the "sucker" the only loser. Inasmuch as the money the "handbook" man bet originally was the "sucker's" money.

(2) If the "field horse" which the "sucker" specified wins, the "handbook" man's agent collects the winnings at the track and the next day the "sucker" is paid off with that money and the "handbook" man breaks even.

(3)—But, if the specified horse loses, and one of his field comes gushing in—that's simply gorgeous for the "handbook" man. For, according to his rules, the "sucker" has lost his bet—but the "handbook" man is winner, inasmuch as his agent cashes the winning ticket on the "field."

NO better illustration of how this rule works out ever was presented than in the running of the Kentucky Derby of several years ago, which was won by Flying Ebony. The track handicapper didn't think much of Flying Ebony's chances and tossed him into the "field" with about five other horses which included a galloper named Prince of Bourbon.

In the teeming purlieu of Gotham, there was a man who thought Prince of Bourbon was a good bet. He had planned to go to Louisville for Derby Day and bet $500 win and $500 place on the Prince. Had he been there, his bet would have gone on the "field" and because Flying Ebony, a "fielder" won, he would have cashed his bet.

If memory serves me correctly, the "field" paid about 8½ to 1 to win and about 3½ to 1 for place. That meant that if the player had bet at the track, he would have won a total of $2500.

He made me exactly the same wager away from the track with a "handbook" man in New York and, therefore, instead of winning $2500 he lost $1000. For, when betting in the "handbook," he was not allowed to bet the "field." He had to specify a particular horse He named Prince of Bourbon—and the prince was one of the "also rans"

A SHORT time afterward, I met up with the "handbook" man who had handed that wager. He recalled the incident vividly—and joyously.

"I won $2,500 on that fellow's bet —and his $1000 beside. He he laughed. "It was quite simple. He bet his money on Prince of Bourbon. I wired his $1000 to the track and made a bet on the 'field' $500 win, $500 place. When Flying Ebony won he, of course, lost, but I collected the $2500 winning, put back $1000 and kept all of the $3500.

"Derby day that year was highly profitable for me. I won more than $25,000—without betting a dollar of my own or taking the chance of losing a single dollar.

HELEN WILLS TO PLAY IN MONTE CARLO TOURNEY

Paris, March 3 (AP)—A Monte Carlo dispatch to the continental edition of the London Daily Mail says that Helen Wills, California tennis star, intends to play at the Monte Carlo tournament in April, according to a cable message received by a friend at Monte Carlo. Henri Cochet and other prominent players also are expected to compete.

RICKARD WANTS DEMPSEY TO FIGHT AGAIN

New York, March 3 (AP)—Talk of drafting Jack Dempsey back as a challenger for Champion Gene Tunney was revived today with a declaration from Tex Rickard that his current heavyweight candidates thus far have failed to measure up to championship quality.

Although Tom Heeney gained a verdict over Jack Delaney in the first section of Rickard's double elimination bill, Rickard said the victory was not sufficiently impressive to elevate Heeney to the role of challenger.

As Dempsey is slated to come east for a legal tussle with Jack Kearns, his former manager, early next month, Rickard stated he would try to induce the Manassa mauler to return to the ring.

While reports were circulated that Dempsey would engage in light training in Orangeburg, N. Y., the former champion at his residence in Los Angeles denied he contemplated any workouts. Dempsey said he planned a trip to Orangeburg only to visit friends.

Meantime, Rickard's pursuit of a suitable opponent for Tunney is renewed in the Jack Sharkey-Tommy Risko go a week from next Monday. If the showing of the principals is outstanding, Rickard may decide to send the victor against Tunney in June. Otherwise, the promoter says he will conduct a final match, pitting Heeney against the winner of the last semi-final.

Many observers are inclined to the belief that when all the rehearsals are over, Rickard will have Dempsey in line for a third encounter with Tunney.

Delaney and Heeney Receive $41,244

New York, March 3 (AP)—Tom Heeney, victor, and Jack Delaney, loser, each received $41,244 for scoring 15 rounds in the first part of the heavyweight elimination semi-finals. The net receipts of the bout amounted to $164,976. Each boxer fought for 25 per cent. of the gate.

In collecting Heeney's share yesterday, Charles J. Harvey, his manager, announced a world's title match with Gene Tunney for the New Zealander.

Joe Jacobs, manager of Delaney, collected the Bridgeporter's payoff check, declaring "Bright Jack" would continue as a heavyweight, contradicting reports that Delaney would return to the light heavyweight division.

Georgetown Picked to Win by "Robbie"

New York, March 3—Among the reasons why Georgetown ought to win the intercollegiate indoor track and field championship tonight is that Lawson Robertson, Pennsylvania coach, thinks it will.

When the best of Eastern college athletes match their capabilities tomorrow night in the intercollegiate A. A. A. A. games at the 102d Engineers' armory, "Robbie's" prediction will not be the only thing tested. There are some world and intercollegiate records that will have to prove themselves worthy of another year's life.

CHARACTER BUILDING IN SCHOOLS

A new aware is being roused to education, and focus adjusted upon spiritual sufficiency. Educators interested in this latest educational trend are loath to give pious or religious terms to what is going on. They are sure young people are not greatly attracted by ancient and medieval phraseology and they seek approach by modernizing terms which deal with the higher intellect and the development of character and citizenship.

Many of the superintendents, directors, or heads of institutions of higher learning whom we have interviewed this week in Boston, Cambridge and Wellesley seem to view with favor the movement for character building, but they are not in accord as to the best method of procedure. Some would have it introduced in connection with the regular courses in economics, ethics and psychology, while others would have it put into practice by the organization of clubs and societies. Some would have it introduced by the example of the faculty, while others would have it put into practice by the organization of clubs and societies. Some would have it introduced by the example of the faculty, while others would have it put into practice by the organization of clubs and societies.

The statement made by the citizens of character in a state, by the united efforts of the group who feel it is possible, the further development of those traits, and a contribution of his best talents and efforts to the welfare of the state.

In Quincy Mayor Cross, for the teaching of ethics in the public schools is in charge of the press, and recently Dean N. Muir delivered a talk on the subject of "Character Building." Dean Muir said: "Character building is the process of developing in the pupil those traits and habits which will enable him to live a happy, useful and successful life. It is the duty of the school to help the pupil to develop his character in such a way that he will be able to meet the problems of life in a manner that will be for the best interests of himself and his fellowmen. It is the duty of the school to help the pupil to develop his character in such a way that he will be able to meet the problems of life in a manner that will be for the best interests of himself and his fellowmen."

Dean Muir expressed very firm opinion on the present trend toward moral training. "I think public education," he said, "is crystallizing around a definite program of character building. Religion has much in the past has been dogmatic and sectarian, and we are all different now in this. What is existing is much deeper than any creeds or dogmas. Religion is no longer care for religious terminology, and the moral philosophy of life and psychology of behavior. Education must start with the basis of character building. What we are attempting in our educational institutions will be known as the character. We are religious education without using the terms. The Association of Women Deans is having compiled personnel courses in various parts of the country and from all is received not only outstanding information, but also honesty, courage, desire to serve determination, etc. This is the essence of all true religious development in spiritual education."

Today's News Picture Cross Country Runners Await Starter's Gong!

ABOVE picture shows C. C. Pyle and two of the cross country runners who will compete in the Los Angeles-to-New York sprint. Our readers have an idea of the difficulties which our cameramen surmounted to obtain this picture. In the first place, the cross country runners were so irritable that they would hardly give a civil answer to interrogations. One cameraman (Mr. Witzel) asked the runners their names. "The Duncan Sisters," snapped one of them hrastily. (Mr. Witzel doesn't recall which one made the crack, but he thinks it was Rosetta.) Finally C. C. Pyle came along and convinced the boys that they should pose, but even then they kept snapping at Mr. Witzel.

The National Fundamental Protestant Association is circulating the announcement that it will draft—

for President of these United States

That would be as good a way as any to demonstrate that there is no such thing as evolution.

These good people—the fundamentalists—at least know how to take a joke.

Seriously.

Every creed should have a candidate.

For President—Swami Yogo'andi!

What if the balance of power in this country finally rests with the House of David?

GIVE FATE A HELPING HAND; TRY AND MASTER IT

By J. J. MUNDY

DO YOU pity yourself to the extent that you think you have not had a square deal in this world —and so you have given up trying?

Do you think that if you ever get on and up to where you want to be someone must help you, for you can't help yourself enough?

In fact, you have thought so much about the aid you ought to have and can't get, that you do nothing for yourself as an individual.

You keep saying to yourself that if such and such a one would advance money or prestige in your behalf you might succeed.

If someone would loan you money to put you on your feet you would make a mighty effort and prove yourself worthy.

So you postpone your activities until that someone becomes enough interested in you to boost you into first place.

Well, you will wait a long time.

The fact that you have not enough stamina to push yourself forward is the biggest factor in your failure, so far.

You have thought yourself into inactivity and then bemoaned the lack of interest in your fate.

Fate does not master unless you let it; but YOU master Fate.

GOOD RESOLUTIONS

By LUCY LOWELL.

YOU made them and by this time you've broken 'em—a great many of them, any way.

I'm speaking, of course, about New Year resolutions.

And by this time you're probably saying to yourself, "What's the use of making resolutions? No more for me, since I only break them anyway."

But I wonder if it's so awfully important that you have broken them so soon? Is that any where nearly as important as the fact that you made resolutions and intended to keep them when you did that?

Life is not all a game with success as a goal. Sometimes failures count enormously in sending us ahead.

The thing you try to do, if it is big enough, is yours in a way [illegible]

The only real failure is the failure to try.

No one can be successful before he attempts success. The thing to do is find out exactly what you want and ignore the set-backs you get on your way to it.

Your first resolution may not take you very far, for it may not last long enough. But it will be while it does last and the second will last longer and take you that much farther. And by the fourth or fifth time you've repeated it, you should be well on your way toward what you have set out to attain.

And supposing you never are able quite to scale the heights? If you keep going you cannot fail to climb part of the way up—up to a point where you will have fresher air and broader view than were yours at the start.

It is not so much what you do—it's what you try to do that counts.

MRS. SOLOMON, SAYS—

By HELEN ROWLAND.

MY Daughter, which of these two wouldst thou be — a man's Guiding Star or his Compass?

For behold, every man aigheth for a woman with Action who shall be his "Guiding Star" and lead him on to adventure and achievement.

Yet, likewise, every man requireth a woman with devotion, who shall serve as his compass, and help him to hold his course, when the star falleth him.

For, verily, verily, stars and inspiring women shine only in fair weather. They must be followed and looked up to and admired from afar.

But a devoted wife and a compass require only to be handled with a little gentleness, to go on forever. And in times of storm and danger they are as a man's right hand to comfort and guide him.

Go to. The fool keepeth one eye upon the stars and one eye upon his compass. But the wise man chooseth between them and abideth by his choice.

For he that seeketh a brilliant woman, who stirreth his imagination and exciteth his fancy, shall find his course full of tempests and high winds and emotional cloudbursts, and dangerous undercurrents. But he shall never know boredom!

He shall dream dreams and see visions and sail upon strange and thrilling high seas toward the Land of his Heart's Desire. But he shall never know peace of mind.

And he that weddeth a steadying and devoted woman, shall steer his [illegible] course, and cast anchor at last in the Harbor of Content.

But he shall never hit the High Spots, or know the thrill of adventure! And his days shall be peaceful but full of dulness.

Then ask me not, wherefore a man yearneth for TWO WOMEN in his life. For every man believeth in his heart that he requireth at least two soul-mates;

One to stimulate him—and one to steady him.

One to save his soul—and one to save his pennies.

One to uplift him—and one to hold him down to earth.

One to inspire him—and one to soothe and comfort him.

One to intoxicate him—and one to cure his headaches.

One to be his Guiding Star—and one to be his Compass.

Yet, whichsoever he weddeth, he yearneth all the days of his life for the Other One!

SELAH.

ASK ATLANTA HOW TO DRAW INDUSTRIES

By B. C. FORBES.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 4—If your city wants to attract industries, ask Atlanta how it is done. Write Two in Atlanta, chairman of the Forward Atlanta Commission, or W. B. C. Smith, father of the forward Atlanta idea, or Milton Dargan president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Admittedly, Atlanta has won leadership in national industrial advertising and in the effectiveness of its for low-up methods. Those methods cannot be here described, because they are too comprehensive, too many-sided to summarize usefully.

B. C. Forbes

In its two Forward Atlanta years $14,819,000 in new payrolls have been attracted, which is nearly three times the record of the best two previous years. 9,158 new jobs have been furnished by the 309 new concerns drawn to the city.

The trebling of Atlanta's growth in the direct fruit of adequate nationwide advertising properly followed through, representing the power of organized community co-motion, based on scientific, soundly planned, ably executed. At the end of 1926, the first year of aggressive reaching out, some skeptics contended that 1926 was a banner year for the whole country, and that was why so many new concerns came to Atlanta. But 1927 certainly was not a banner year, yet more new concerns located in Atlanta than during 1926.

When Florida was booming I discovered during a visit to Atlanta that many citizens were alarmed lest Atlanta be bulned of people and badly over-shadowed. I then told a gathering of business men that the more prosperous and populous Florida became that the better it would be for Atlanta, as well as other industrial cities within easy shipping distance of the Everglades state. That was what happened and will continue to happen. Property in one section invariably helps adjacent sections.

VELMA WEST IS 'TOO FRAIL TO BE TRIED'

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(Copyright, 1928, International News Service)

Cleveland, O., March 3— "She's my child—my baby. My poor, broken little one! I think of her every minute of the day and I pray for her the whole long night as well."

Simple as these words sound they did not seem so when spoken today by Mrs. Catherine Van Woert, mother of Velma West, the flapper "baptism of slaughter" victim on trial Monday at Painesville for the murder of her husband, T. Edward West, whom she killed in a "blind rage" in their honeymoon bungalow at Perry, O., on December 6.

FEARS FOR VELMA

"I'm afraid Velma won't be able to stand the ordeal of the trial," said Mrs. Van Woert. "She's so tired—and so frightened."

The mother, a slender, genteel woman of about 40, had just returned to her home in Cleveland after paying a visit to Velma at the Lake County jail.

"She ran to me when I entered her cell, and she kissed me," related Mrs. Van Woert. "I cried not to cry . . . She clung to me.

"I said: 'Baby, be brave,' and she said: 'Yes, mother, I will . . . but don't worry. You'll promise me, won't you, mother, that you won't worry?' I said: 'Baby, why do you keep going?' And she said: 'Mamma, I've made a scarf for you and I hope you'll like it.' I said: 'I'm glad her tight.'"

VELMA NOT HARD-BOILED

Mrs. Van Woert assured the interviewer that her daughter was not the shallow, hard-boiled, pleasure-loving girl that she has been pictured. She was, rather, "just like a million other American girls"—the sort of girl who is shopping, going to matinees, dancing and playing bridge all over the country today.

Velma was not the "life of the party" at the bridge game she attended in Cleveland the night she killed her husband, according to her mother, as has been said. "The truth is that Velma left the game that night, a pathetic, contrite figure," said Mrs. Van Woert.

NEVER TALKS OF SLAYING

Velma never discusses the slaying, her mother said. It is evident, however, that she has not said a word to Van Woert said, Occasionally Velma, referring to her mother-in-law, whom she likes, says of "Poor Mother West." Velma spends her time embroidering, reading popular magazines and the Bible. She is reported not to smokes more cigarettes than her mother thinks she should.

Seeks Estate

AUNT AIDS HER

Mrs. Jeremiah Murphy of 134 Fairmont st., Dorchester, has filed suit in behalf of her niece, Catherine Burns, for estate of $4000 the girl's grandfather left to New Bedford Salvation Army.

COWBOY WINS HEIRESS AS HIS BRIDE

New York, March 3 (AP)—The New York American in a copyrighted story today says that Barbara Mondell, 23-year-old daughter of Mrs. Ambrose Mondell, reputed one of the wealthiest society leaders of New York, was married February 21 in Colorado Springs to a rodeo performer and harness maker, Kenneth Wilson Glazer.

The paper says that the girl will live on a ranch with her cowboy husband. It quotes her as preferring the life of a cowgirl to the more modishly attired easterner and that she desires to live the simple life.

Miss Mondell underwent an operation last fall and was ordered to Colorado for her health. She took an apartment in a hotel near Colorado Springs. There she met Glazer, who runs a harness shop, on a trip into the city after a harness for her dog, the American says.

Glazer, whom the paper describes as 6 feet 1¾ inches tall, weighing 175 pounds, good looking and a "rootin', tootin' bronco-ridin' cowboy," fell in love with the society heiress, who is quite a horsewoman herself.

It was mutual and the consent of Miss Mondell was obtained, the paper says. Although her mother protested, the couple held firm and Mrs Mondell finally consulted and went wist for the wedding.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Channing Pratt, rector of Grace and St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Mondell is the widow of the late president of the International Nickel Company, who left her a fortune of approximately $15,000,000.

Hubby, Gone for 41 Years, Is Sued as Wife Deserter

Hartford, Ct., March 3 (AP)—Thomas McGee left his home in Windsor July 9, 1887, to visit brothers and find work in Ohio. He has never been heard from.

Mrs. Matilda McGee has just obtained a divorce on the ground of desertion.

5-10 DRUNKARD IN COURT

Walter Willey, who claims to be a former Canadian physician, told Judge Michael J. Murray in Municipal Court today that he is a 5 and 10 cent drunkard.

Officer Oliver Brennan testified that he arrested Willey for drunkenness and found that the man was drinking his rum poured in 5 and 10 cent stores, and that he consumed sometimes as much as 10 or 12 bottles a day.

"So," said Judge Murray, "you're a 5 and 10 cent drunk."

"Yes, Your Honor," replied Willey.

Brennan suggested the man should be sent away to save his life, but the court said he would give Willey a chance to do his own life saving, and placed him on probation.

MARINE PATROL KILLS 1 REBEL, WOUNDS ANOTHER

Managua, Nic., March 3 (AP)—Supplies were being speeded by airplane today to American Marines who were swarming over the Nicaraguan hunting for bandits rebels, believed to be hiding in the mountains.

One rebel was slain and another wounded by a patrol of marines and National Guardsmen near Somoto in the only encounter since Monday. There were no marine casualties.

U. S. AIR CHIEFS FOR LINDY PLAN

Washington, March 3 (INS)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's suggestion made at the Education convention in Boston that the fundamentals of aviation be taught in grammar schools and colleges was heartily endorsed today by government air chiefs.

Both the army and navy already have established air training units in a few colleges, and plan to extend this work.

"Col. Lindbergh's idea is a wise one," declared Brig.-Gen. B. D. Foulois, assistant chief of the Army Air Corps. "The army is anxious and willing to co-operate."

The army is now planning to establish an air academy similar to San Antonio. The city has donated a large tract of land. Students will be taken from colleges and given one year's flying training to qualify as pilots in the regular army and reserve corps.

Since 1926 the army has graduated 208 pilots out of 1,083 who have taken civilian flying cadet courses.

DEMAND CURTAINS TO PROTECT ENGINEMEN

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Railroads operating in the northern half of the United States should be required to install curtains on locomotives for the protection of engineers, the Interstate Commerce Commission was advised today by John L. Rogers, a special examiner.

Rogers suggested to the commission supported by railroad commissions of several other states, asked the commission to require the curtains.

The Rogers report recommended the railroads use curtains between November and April in northern territory. The States of Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont, were included in territory within which the curtain equipment should be placed in service.

READING HALL BURNS, WITH LOSS OF $5000

Clarigold Hall, an unused structure on Montell st., Reading, was destroyed by fire today, the loss being estimated at $5000. Officials say the fire was of incendiary origin. When the firemen arrived the building was in the grip of the flames and in order to prevent them from spreading help was summoned from Stoneham and Woburn.

The hall is the property of H. H. Pierce and during the season former owned by Edward Clark, cornetist in Sousa's band. An investigation is being made.

FIRE FROM CIGARETTE CAUSES $4000 DAMAGE

Fire said by the police to have been caused by a smoldering cigarette caused $4000 damage to the dwelling at 39 Radnor rd., Brighton, today, driving two couples to the street.

Herman F. Kirstein, occupying the first floor suite, was aroused by smoke filling the house. He awakened his wife, who fled, and then notified Mr. and Mrs. Morris J. Lowenberg, living on the second floor.

D'ANNUNZIO IS NEAR DEATH

Rome, March 3 (AP) — Reports from Gardone today said that physicians considered the condition of Gabriele D'Annunzio, Italian poet and soldier, to be critical; influenza from which he has been suffering recently has been complicated by bronchial trouble.

Reports reaching Rome from D'Annunzio's home in Gardone led to the belief that the poet had little chance of recovering. So serious did Premier Mussolini regard D'Annunzio's condition that he ordered General Piecio, one of the most noted of Italian aces, to fly immediately to Gardone to keep him informed hourly of D'Annunzio's condition.

LITTLE GIRL SEES MOTHER SLAIN BY ATTACKER

Irvington, N. J., Mar. 3 (INS)—Robbed of her mother's life, the child girl today told police how her mother, Mrs. Filipina Ferrenzia, 33, was fatally stabbed to death in her home. Filipina, the little girl, was found by neighbors who heard her crying. She sobbed that a man forced his way into her mother's unlighted bedroom and a struggle followed. Clasping her eight-months-old daughter to her breast, Mrs. Ferrenzia fled to the room porch where the man shot her dead.

MRS. CHARLES S. EATON ILL WITH RARE DISEASE

Chicago, March 3 (AP)—Mrs. Charles Scribner Eaton, daughter of the late William Rainey Harper, founder of the University of Chicago, is seriously ill. It is believed she has Addison's disease, one of the rarest known to medical science. One of the symptoms is the changing of the skin to a reddish-bronze color.

Washes Windows to Get a Dollar for 'Lindy' Girl

How many windows must a window washer wash to clear a profit of $1?

That's not a psychology test question nor even a problem in simple mathematics. It is a question involving charity and comparative philanthropy.

William A. Ryan of Dorchester, organizer and sole executive of the World League of Cities, gave Boston a chuckle and at the same time a little serious thought when it was discovered last September that he had invited several thousand foreign representatives, on his own initiative, to the city's tercentenary celebration in 1930.

Since then Ryan has afforded several chuckles and several serious thoughts, and always, it seems, the serious thoughts overpalance the chuckles.

Today Ryan walked into the Boston Herald-Traveler office with a $1 bill in his hand.

"I send in the paper," he said, "that Miss Charlotte Wells, the Cambridge girl who was struck by Lindy's car while trying to see the flier, had no family and no money. I thought this would help. Everybody wants to see Lindy."

He tossed the money on a desk and started away.

"Wait a minute," somebody called.

"Can't wait," said Ryan over his shoulder. "I got to wash a lot of windows. Send the money to the girl."

So that's how the problem in philanthropy arose. How many windows must a window washer wash to clear a profit of $1?

Piano Makers Vie With Bricklayers in Art Exhibit

New York, March 3 (AP)—This city's twelfth annual tree-for-all art exhibit, in which bricklayers, chauffeurs, piano makers and other followers of prosaic callings will compete with recognized artists, opens next Friday in the Waldorf-Astoria roof, with more than 700 exhibits.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Society of Independent Artists. There are no judges and no prizes, but the exhibitors will offer their creations for sale at prices ranging from $10 to $10,000.
